

Devon Hahn is an Assistant Clinical Professor in the Department of Pediatrics at the University of Oklahoma Health Sciences Center, and practices in the sections of Pediatric Hospital Medicine and General and Community Pediatrics at the Children's Hospital of Oklahoma. She teaches medical students and Pediatric residents in both the inpatient and outpatient settings. Her areas of interest include resident and medical student education, asthma patient education, and pain management in children.