

Kathryn Konrad is assistant professor and continuing educator coordinator with the University of Oklahoma Fran and Earl Ziegler College of Nursing. Since 2000, Prof. Konrad has been a maternal newborn nurse in a variety of settings. She received her Bachelors of Science in Nursing from the University of Central Oklahoma in 2000, her Masters in Nursing Education from the University of Oklahoma Health Sciences Center in 2008, and is currently working on a PhD in nursing at Virginia Commonwealth University. She works to improve maternal newborn outcomes as an educator, researcher, and advocate.