

Professional Bio-sketch: Faisal Latif

Dr. Faisal Latif is an Assistant Professor of Medicine/Cardiology and an Interventional Cardiologist at the University of Oklahoma Health Sciences Center and VA Medical Center in Oklahoma City since 2009. He is the Director of Cardiac Cath Lab at the VA Medical Center. He graduated from King Edward Medical College in Pakistan in 2000 after which he completed residency in Internal Medicine followed by fellowship in Cardiovascular Diseases at OU. Then, he went to William Beaumont Hospital in Royal Oak, Michigan for fellowship in Interventional Cardiology. He specializes in various interventional cardiovascular procedures including percutaneous coronary and peripheral vascular stenting. He also enjoys teaching medical students, resident and fellows and mentors them. His research interests include coronary revascularization procedures in patients with renal dysfunction, hypertrophic cardiomyopathy and carotid artery stenting.