

Mike Maxwell, MD, FACP, is a general internist who has been in practice in the St. John Health System since 1988. He has been on the Oklahoma Center for Healthcare Improvement board since its inception in 2009 and has served as its president since 2016. He has been actively engaged in quality improvement work for many years. He has been a participant in the nationally recognized Comprehensive Primary Care Initiative and has served as an Academic Detailer in the Healthy Hearts for Oklahoma Program and now the Do No Harm Program – peer-to-peer academic outreach programs designed to prepare physicians and their teams for many of the new challenges primary care offices are facing. As an “almost native” Tulsan, he attended Tulsa Public Schools and then the University of Oklahoma for his college and post graduate education and training.
