Professional Practice Gap:

1. Gaps in physicians’ understanding of rescue and recovery responses immediately after the bombing
2. Gaps in our understanding medical and mental health services, and programs provided to adults
3. Gaps in our knowledge about child disaster mental health services
4. Gaps in physicians’ awareness of short-term and long-term effects on direct survivors of terrorism
5. Gaps in our recognizing continued physical and mental health needs and utilization among those impacted

Learning Objectives - Upon completion of this session, participants will improve their competence and performance by being able to:

1. Review the physical, emotional and financial impact of the 1995 Oklahoma City bombing
2. Discuss physicians’ early rescue and recovery responses in the collapsed building immediately after
3. Discuss the mental health response in partnership with the APA for adults affected by the bombing
4. Discuss the issues in delivering disaster mental health services to children
5. Review short- and long-term emotional, neurobiological and health effects in adults and youth, and continued needs
6. Discuss mental health utilization over time

Disclosure & Resolution Report

The University of Oklahoma College of Medicine and the Irwin H. Brown Office of Continuing Professional Development must ensure balance, independence, objectivity and scientific rigor in all its activities. We have implemented a process where everyone who is in a position to control the content of an educational activity has disclosed to us all relevant financial relationships with any commercial interest. In addition, should it be determined that a conflict of interest exists as a result of a financial relationship one may have, this will be resolved prior to the activity. This policy is designed to provide the target audience with an opportunity to review any affiliations between the CME organizers and presenters and supporting organizations for the purpose of determining the potential presence of bias or influence over educational content.
